I have seen the condition and appearance of some mouths totally changed--revolutio ize as a consequence of such treatment and instructions. The next important step, preliminary to operations of filling, is to make a very careful examination of the mouth, going through it with floss-silk, mouth-glass and small excavators or exploring instruments, tooth by tooth, till the condition of each one is ascertained as nearly as possible with reference to decay, and a permanent record made in a book to be kept for the purpose. Similar signs can be used as in the recording of operations. Doubtful places should be indicated and afterward separated one by one with rubber or otherwise for perfect examination, and operation if found necessary. A comparison of such an examination with the record book will at any time show what has been done and what remains to do. The advantages of such an examination are very many. The most important, perhaps, is the opportunity it gives to plan the entire series of operations and arrange the various items so as to be consistent with each other as well as suitable in each instance. The saving of time in frequent re-examinations, and security from the liability...
